Alfred S. Gough of Carstairs was the unanimous choice as Conservative candidate to contest the Didsbury riding in the next provincial election at the convention held at Acme last Wednesday afternoon.

The meeting was held in McInnis Hall at 3 o'clock, with J. W. Munro in the chair. There was a representative gathering from all parts of the constituency, and the chairman expressed gratification at the large attendance.

D. M. Duggan gave a short address at the opening of the meeting. Nominations were called for, and the name of A. S. Gough was put forward by J. W. Munro. After considerable time, and as no other name had been proposed, W. H. Grainger and M. J. Parker moved that nominations be closed. A. S. Gough was therefore declared the nominee, and in a few well-chosen words thanked the meeting for the honor accorded him.

The "Toll Of The Road"

When is a halt to be called to the ever mounting toll of deaths and serious injuries attributable to automobile accidents.

It is well nigh impossible to pick up a newspaper these days without finding a tragic headline recording one more—or several more—fatalities and to learn that some promising life has been snuffed out or the community has lost the services of some of its outstanding citizens.

If the total of killed and injured in automobile crashes of one kind or another, and from one cause or another, in all countries throughout the world could possibly be ascertained each and every day, and then made public daily, it would perhaps shock the consciousness of most people. The opinion may be ventured that many a war has been fought in which the average daily casualties were not as great as to-day's average "toll of the road".

If the same number of men, women and children were being killed and injured each day and every day in a war being waged on the North American continent, our newspapers, press societies, churches, governments, would begin to demand that a stop be put to the carnage.

But because the slaughter and suffering is merely the result of automobile accidents, people shrug their shoulders, give expression to some polite words of sympathy, wonder why there should be so many accidents, and then pass on to discuss the price of wheat, the result of the international yacht race or the outcome of the world's baseball series.

Governments and communities the world over have improved and continue to improve roads and main highways. Hundreds of millions of the taxpayers' money is being spent annually in so doing, while the maintenance of these higher standard highways costs tens of millions more. And the better the roads, the more accidents.

Automobile manufacturers continue to take advantage of these better highways to turn out more powerful and even faster cars. They equip them with better brakes, better tires, safety glass, better devices of every conceivable kind, and then they are turned loose on the highways.

Volumes of laws and regulations are passed to control the operation of these cars and traffic regulations of many kinds are approved and ordered to be enforced. Some of them are, many are not. In fact, without a traffic officer posted every few miles and on every road, complete enforcement of the many laws and regulations is physically and practically impossible. People know this and proceed to ignore laws and regulations enacted for the protection of themselves as well as other people.

Glaring headlights which blind the driver of an oncoming car; only one headlight burning; no rear light, overtaking and passing and then cutting in ahead of another car and doing so at a high rate of speed, tooting up an engine in entire ignorance of the fact that another car may be mounting the other side; dashing in from a side road on to a main highway without stopping or slackening speed; operating cars with defective brakes, but why continue the enumeration? These and many other violations of law and regulations are daily sending people to their deaths or to live on, helpless, suffering cripples.

When is it going to stop? How is it going to be stopped? Or have people become so reckless and so careless of death and suffering, and so careless of the rights of others, that they are quite satisfied that the "toll of the road" should go on mounting higher and higher?

The passing of even more stringent laws will not stop it, although they might prove, for a time, as a greater preventive. The better enforcement of existing laws and regulations would help, especially if the penalties for violation of them were made much more severe. More and still more education of the people would ultimately bring some results.

But in the final analysis there is only one way in which this black blot on our present day civilization can be removed. The individual citizen must himself do it. Education, laws, law enforcement, alone will never accomplish it. It is that strong, almost all-powerful human factor, which so many people to-day are inclined to ignore in the realms of society, economics and in relation to all public policies and acts, which constitutes the weak link in the chain of public conduct and public relationships.

Individuals must take this great problem in hand. They must not only understand and obey the law themselves, but whether they like to do so or not they must individually become guardians of the public weal and take an active part in solving the problem, rather than maintain a merely academic interest in it, saying "Let George do it," and relying on law and policemen to do what law and policemen alone can never do.

Vancouver Port Busy

Greater Volume Of Wheat Being Handled This Year

The golden flood of wheat, each grain of which leaves money in the pockets of Vancouver people, is pouring out of that port at greater volume than at the corresponding dates in 1933.

The grain season has been in operation now since August 1. It is computed from August 1 to July 31 annually.

Since August 1, this 1934-35 season now in progress, the figures of grain, mainly wheat, shipped out of Port of Vancouver by grain-carriers to all ports of the world, show more than a 50 per cent. increase compared with the corresponding period of the 1933-34 crop year.

Figures are: For this crop year, has so far been shipped, 2,708,968 bushels; for the last crop year to similar date, 2,857,261 bushels.

But it is not alone during the past few weeks that good figures have been shown. The future looks good. Business at the elevators is brisk, and cars are reaching Vancouver to deposit grain for shipment abroad.

Figures show, in elevators at the time of writing, 10,328,258 bushels of wheat.

At the same date last year there were 8,946,475 bushels in elevators. In 1937 cars in Vancouver, and on the British Columbia divisions of both the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways, are 2,291,010 bushels of wheat.

Saskatchewan Will Give Some Aid In Treating Indigent Patients

Some form of financial assistance will be extended by the government to medical practitioners in Saskatchewan for the treatment of indigent patients. All such cases, however, will be dealt with on individual merit. There will be no blanket policy of government aid to physicians.

This stand was taken by the government was made clear to a delegation representing the Saskatchewan Medical Association, which waited on Premier J. G. Gardiner at Regina. Respecting their request for payment by the government for treatment of such individuals, Mr. Gardiner took the stand that such would constitute a partial form of state medicine.

The aeroplane dispatcher at Concord, New Hampshire airport, is a woman, Mrs. Alice E. Marston. Four times daily a tri-motored passenger, mail or express aeroplane alights there, and whether it be 35 below zero as it was once last winter, or 90 in the shade as it was more than once this summer, passengers are greeted by a trim, diminutive lady who unflinchingly takes their tickets, assists them to alight and then leaves the auto bugs on board or takes them off.

Wider Distribution of Good Seed Is a Prime Essential In Putting Farming Back On Paying Basis

One of the improvements most to be desired in Canadian agriculture is a reduction in the number of varieties in use of cereals and other farm crops, and the more careful selection and better cleaning and grading of the seed of the best varieties.

A small per centage of farmers who make use of the best varieties make use also of the best seed cleaning methods, with the result that the seed which they sow is in all particulars superior to the seed used by their neighbors, and it is scripturally and actually true that as they sow, so they reap. Their crops are likewise superior.

On the other hand it is true that many are unable to state the variety of the wheat, oats or other important crop they are growing. This is equivalent to saying that they do not know whether it is good, poor or indifferent seed in quality. Other farmers, again, are familiar enough with the variety names of their crops but have been misled on the subject of the merit of any particular variety, and may be prizeing high one which is not the best adapted to their particular locality or which perhaps is of inferior quality wherever grown. Failure to compare carefully the merits of the different varieties and to choose the variety in each crop which under the prevailing local conditions combine both high yield and good quality is a misfortune, first from the standpoint of returns to the individual grower and secondly from that of the nation's total production.

Unfortunately, too, are the results from using seed which is not pure as to kind and variety. There are many instances where one kind of grain has been so contaminated with another, or one variety has been so mixed with one or more other varieties of the same kind, that the resulting crop has been unsuitable for seed and has suffered serious deterioration in market value. Differences in varieties as to time of ripening, colour, size and shape of kernel, and in milling and feeding quality, emphasize the desirability of keeping each variety as pure as possible.

Fortunately there are to-day in every province of Canada individual growers and societies of farmers who are specializing in the production of Registered, Certified or Improved No. 1 seed of the common agricultural crops. Their efforts in improved seed production, and the distribution of their product among other growers are being encouraged by both the federal and provincial Departments of Agriculture.

Barbarians Advertised

Had Signs Over Caves Telling About Axes And Clubs

In the course of an interesting address on "Advertising" to his fellow members, Harold Vanderlinde, secretary of the Wallaceburg, Ontario, Kinsmen Club, declared that "the newspapers are the greatest medium of advertising in the world. Mr. Vanderlinde took his listeners back to the cave-man period, when advertising was first introduced by the barbarians with signs over their caves, advertising their stone axes and hammers and clubs. The same form of colored-poster advertising as is now still used by barbers was employed by the Roman tensorial artists he said.

WHAT DOES YOUR HANDWRITING REVEAL?

By LAWRENCE HIBBERT
(Grapho-Analyst)
(All Rights Reserved)

(Editor's Note: Interest is increasing in these articles on Character from Handwriting. Many readers are taking advantage of the author's offer to give them a personal reading of their own writing. If you want your handwriting analysed, read the announcement at the foot of this article.)

I mentioned in an earlier article that a handwriting expert—a Grapho-Analyst—is not a magician. He is not one who, by waving a magic wand, can transfigure you. He cannot, by the mere expression of certain feelings in his character, change these weaknesses into strong changes of character.

A Grapho-Analyst's position is that of an "advisee." He can dissect your character and your talents; he can probe your nature and put his finger on the weak points, and he can delineate the good traits that you have.

It is up to the "patient" whether or not he acts on the suggestions of the Grapho-Analyst. If you go to a doctor, and he makes certain suggestions for treatment, based on his diagnosis of your case, it is up to you whether you follow out his advice.

So with the Grapho-Analyst. This science of reading character from handwriting will be of tremendous help to you, and will, if you follow out the advice that is given you, based on your handwriting, be of incalculable value to you.

Various correspondents have asked certain questions. Some of these have already been mentioned in my previous articles, but it will be well worth while repeating one or two of them. Because in any consideration of the value of Grapho-Analysis, these facts must be borne in mind.

Can handwriting tell sex? No, it cannot. We all know of women who have very strong qualities and virile personalities, who not like men are commonly supposed to act. And these women are like men. This is because there are certain definite masculine qualities—aggressiveness, for example. This shows in the writing.

And some men are very effeminate. They write like many women. And these characteristics show up in their writing. But it is not possible to lay it down as a basic law, that sex can be shown from handwriting.

Is it possible to diagnose ailments and disease from handwriting? There are certain diseases, as heart trouble, for instance, which can be diagnosed from handwriting. But this kind of Grapho-Analysis is merely in the early experimental stages.

Nothing definite or scientific can be laid down in this matter, at the present time, and, for that reason, Grapho-Analysts do not attempt to inform questioners as to their specific ailments.

Grapho-Analysis is a scientific delineation of character and talents from handwriting, and, as such, is of tremendous value to you. It is definite and unassailable on these points, and in that regard can exercise a tremendous power for good.

Do you want to know the traits of character that your handwriting reveals? A personal analysis may be the means of saving your whole future. And do you wish to know the sex characteristics of your friends? Send specimens of the writing you want analysed, and enclose 10¢ coin for each. Send with 3¢ stamped addressed envelope, to: Lawrence Hibbert, care of Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave., Winnipeg, Man. Letters are confidential and will be answered as soon as possible, but please allow about two weeks for your reply.

Scientists Discover How To Convert Wood Into Glucose, The Fundamental Of All Foods

The eye of scientists are on a little factory which has just been opened at Mannheim-Rheinau in Germany.

This factory has been built with the support of the Nazi government. One of the scientists responsible for it is a Lancashire professor.

Larry loads of wood are going into it, and are being transformed by intricate chemical processes into some of the essential foods of life.

It means that it will be impossible in future for any country with timber to be starved out in time of war.

The timber is turned by dilute acid treatment into sugar—not ordinary sugar, but glucose, the fundamental of all foods.

Glucose can be converted easily into yeast, foodstuffs, alcohol, resin, glycerine—and a hundred other things.

Already the work is on a commercial scale, and millions of acres of European land, which are regarded as useless except for timber, now become of equal economic importance with cultivated farm lands.

The chemists responsible for this discovery are Dr. Friedrich Bergius, a German scientist, and Dr. W. T. Ormandy, a research chemist from Wigan, Lancashire, who is now living in London.

Dr. Bergius has been working on the scheme for 15 years. Dr. Ormandy joined him 10 years ago.

British firms who have been supporting Dr. Bergius and Dr. Ormandy in their research will share in the benefits of the discovery.

There are 2,000,000 acres of woodland in Britain. The state controls 200,000 acres, and the other 2,700,000 acres are private property.

Britain, according to the latest figures, has only 1,500,000 acres of land under oats—less than half the woodland acreage.

This means that Britain, if equipped with these factories, could draw on 3,000,000 extra acres of land for a food supply in time of emergency.

Dr. Ormandy said: "Germany realizes the importance of this discovery because of her experiences during the war."

"She had to starve her population to provide material for explosives."

"But now things are different, and that is what Hitler meant when he said recently: 'German scientists with German materials are going to make Germany an independent nation.'"

"Every year on every acre of forest land nearly the same amount of digestible cellulose and other carbohydrate foods are produced as on an acre of land under oats."

"Only about half of the available wood can be used as timber, and it became obvious to us that there was an enormous source of raw material for the production of foodstuffs at the disposal of mankind if only we could find a technical process to transform it into glucose."

"We soon discovered how to make alcohol from wood."

"We then found out how to produce a digestible sugar which can be used as human food directly in the form of pure glucose, or indirectly in the form of a cattle food."

"The production of yeast followed quickly."

"The factory at Rheinau is now capable of producing each year more than 600 tons of pure carbohydrates for food."

"The discovery is as important a factor in guaranteeing an independent food supply as the coal hydrogenation process is in guaranteeing independence from supplies of foreign oil."

A reporter tasted some glucose. It is like sherbet, but is sweeter and less effervescent.

Two tablespoonsful are said by chemists to be equal in food value to a whole meal.

Would Reduce Street Noises

Italy May Make Autoists Drive Without Using Horns

As a result of recent tests, Italy in considering the abolition of street noise by forbidding the use of automobile horns. This silent regime has already been employed at night in England with success.

Every Italian automobile operator "drives with his horn," resulting in a bedlam of noise unequalled in any other country. All taxis and most private cars are equipped both with electric sirens and the old-fashioned horns with rubber bulbs.

At present all honking has to cease for the night at 11 p.m. to give citizens some chance to sleep. Recently a "week of silence" was tried out in Milan and there was not a single accident. Now it is planned to ban horns altogether throughout the country.

Sir Kingsley Wood, British postmaster-general, told the advertising convention at Leicester he attributed much of the recent record increases in the business of the British post-office to extensive and consistent advertising.

Would Not Like It

Prince Of Wales Knew Lots About His "Great-Granny"

"Are there any kings and queens in Heaven, or when you are an angel everybody equal?" asked the present Prince of Wales when, as a child of seven, his portrait was being painted by Mrs. Gertrude Massey, the well-known artist in miniature.

Mrs. Massey replied that all were equal in Heaven. "I think that is quite right, but great-granny won't like it," replied the Prince. "Great-granny" was Queen Victoria.

Now Science Explains Why So Many People Past 40

Feel That They're Slipping Losing Their 'Grip' on Things

Many people round 40 think they're "growing old." They feel tired a lot. "Aches" here, "headaches" there, nervousness, stomach upsets.

Well, scientists say the cause of all this, in a great many cases, is simply an acid condition of the stomach. Nothing more.

All you have to do is to neutralize the excess stomach acidity. When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia for neutralizing and before going to bed. That's all!

Try this. Soon you'll feel like another person. Take either the familiar brand "PHILLIPS" or the convenient new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Made in Canada.

Also in THIRTY FORMS: Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale in all drug stores everywhere. Letting you choose the one you prefer. Let us know the equivalent of 100 mg. of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

SAVED FROM CHINESE BANDITS

Our picture shows (centre and right) Mr. R. Lury and Mr. E. P. Johansen, officials of the Metro-Goldwyn Film Corporation, photographed after their rescue from bandits who wrecked a train in Manchuria and kidnapped them. The bandits were beaten on an island by an aeroplane.

Poultrymen Will Have Opportunity To Vote

Every poultry producer with a flock of 25 birds or more will be given opportunity to vote for or against the proposed Alberta Poultry Marketing Scheme, and the application of that scheme will depend entirely upon such vote, a statement issued by the Alberta Poultry Marketing Board emphasizes.

Poultry producers are urged by the board to fully acquaint themselves with the details of the proposed scheme before making their personal decision. It is pointed out that the petitions endorsing the scheme at present being circulated, are mainly from sources whose interests are not identical with those of the producers, and members of the board are extremely anxious that producers fully satisfy themselves concerning both sides of the question before reaching a decision.

Temporary headquarters of the poultry marketing board have been opened at 606, Northern Investment Building, Edmonton. Copies of the marketing plan may be obtained from this office.

All poultry producers are also invited by the board to register their names and addresses and the number of birds they control, with the board at the above address, in order that these may be checked against the registered lists now being prepared, and thus absolutely insure the opportunity of voting for or against the proposal.

"Kritiks' Korner."

Since this column last appeared Oiler Street has been gravelled; the Bank of Montreal Building reconstructed and opened as a business place; the new Evangelical Church has been dedicated; Barrett's Filling Station has been finished; a gravel walk has been built on Berlin Street; Knox United Church Lawn has been plowed up; a garage has almost been backed back of the Hotel, and no doubt other improvements made round and about that have not come as yet to the attention of your "Observer," which all goes to prove that the town is progressing and growing. Let the good work continue.

In some places our street lighting could be better. An extra light is needed midway of the block on some of our east and west streets.

Our streets should be covered with sand or ashes. Broken bones and accidents are costly.

WEEKLY JOKE

A growing small town daily paper announced the death of Win Jones, who, it turned out, was not dead. Next day the paper printed the following item: "Yesterday we were the first paper to publish the death of Win Jones. Today we are the first to deny that report—the Morning Star is always in the lead."

Autumn Leaves

Those dead brown leaves we idly crunch
And crackle 'neath our feet,
'Tis not long since they throbbed with life,
Warmed by the summer heat.
A carpet for our feet—why should we care?

Their day is done!
Yet when firmly linked to mother tree
Waved gaily in the sun.

Now chilly winds blow them about,
Like thin, frail cockle shells,
Just as we're blown, unless by Thy Strong hand we're tightly held.
We find when we would tighter cling,
Jostled round by earthly gales,
No strength is in our stems, O Lord,
Much ease hath made us frail.

For every tinkling, shiny leaf
Performs some duty small,
Effacing self in myriad leaves,
Cool shade beside the wall.
To refresh some weary wanderer
Whose nerves are raw and frayed,
The leaves overhead tinkling out their song
Find their tiny service paid.

Shall we, in the autumn time of life
Be blown by every squall,
With some small good have weighted our own leaves,

So in fertile ground they will fall?
Though passer-by see only dead soil,
Good ever springs anew.
When the warm breath of springtide obeys nature's call,
Hardy new blossoms peep through.

CHAPTER III.—Continued

Somehow the Broken Spur always found a market. Broken Spur cattle were shipped periodically to California to be fattened to bring the highest prices in a falling market while the Hour-glass could not pay its freight bills for such shipments. Poor old Joe Carr saw the Hour-glass go to pieces under his once able hands and he sought in vain for the reason. That suit over Soda Springs was the last straw.

"I know damned well they've been robbin' us deaf, dumb and blind," he snapped to big Crewe, his foreman. "But I can't prove it. What can I do? There's nothin' I can do, Frank."

"Huh. You might try leavin' the cork in that whisky bottle for a change," said Crewe, who was not inaptly named Frank. Carr cursed him and on that occasion left the cork in the bottle . . . for an hour.

"I wish to God I could get truck of that young fellow Gerald Keene," went on Carr fretfully. "You know how old Peter Vinton left the Hour-glass. Half to me and half to him and if one of us dies, the other gets the half of the one who dies. Funny way to leave a ranch. Nobody can find young Keene. Nobody knows his address. I've been ruminatin' into the red ink right along by borrowin' cash to finance the Hour-glass for the last few years. I've been doin' it on my own responsibility. It ain't right that he shouldn't pay his share."

"Listen here, Joe," said Crewe wheeled on his employer. "I've known you for a lifetime as men count years. As a cattle-man nobody can teach you a thing about the business. As a distiller you ain't much but as a steady consumer of bottled goods you ought to have a gold medal. No use blinkin' facts that're right face up on the table. It's liquor that's helped put the ranch in the red. . . Red liquor. It might have happened anyhow but I know it helped a bad

Now!...new aid in PREVENTING Colds

Remarkable New Formula is Especially Designed for Nose and Upper Throat where most colds start

AFTER years of research on the problem of colds, Vicks Chemicals have developed a remarkable new preparation—Vicks Va-to-nol. This exclusive Vicks formula is especially designed to aid the functions which Nature has provided—in the nose—to prevent colds, or to throw them off in their early stages. Used at the very first feeling of nasal irritation—just a few drops up each nostril—Va-to-nol helps to avoid many colds altogether.

Relieves Head Colds at Every Stage

If irritation has reached the stuffy, sneezy stage—Nature's usual warning that a cold is developing—prompt use of Va-to-nol helps to throw it off in the early stages.

Where irritation has led to a clogged-up nose (a stuffy head cold or nasal catarrh) Va-to-nol penetrates deep into the nasal passages—reduces swollen membrane—clears away clogging mucus—brings welcome relief.

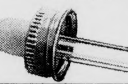

Va-to-nol is real medication—not mere "oil drops"—yet is absolutely safe for children and adults. It has been clinically tested by physicians—approved by specialists.

Easy to use, anytime or place—at home or at work. Keep a bottle always handy.

Introduces Vicks Colds-Control Plan

This new aid in preventing colds is the ideal companion to Vicks VapoRub (modern external treatment for colds). Together with certain simple rules of health, these two preparations form the new Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Records of thousands of clinical tests—made over a period of two years, and under medical supervision—indicate that Vicks Plan greatly reduced the number, duration and dangers of colds. (Full details of the Plan in each package of Vicks VapoRub and Vicks Va-to-nol.)

matter to get worse. It's time somebody's tellin' you. . . ."

Carr began a futile protest but Crewe cut him short.

"You'd never have got into that card game in the Silver Dollar but for red liquor. That game cost you ten thousand and you know it. You'd never have tried ruminatin' a horse for the Coahuila Sweepstakes if you hadn't been so full you couldn't hit the ground with your hat. Then you made a bet you'd win it and when you sobered up you wouldn't even hedge. A cattleman's got no business ruminatin' a horse except at the end of his rope. You know it when you're sober, too. That's what makes me so damned hot."

"I was tryin' to win back what I'd lost," said Carr. "Hell, man! I know that. A fat chance you had of winnin'! Three strangers settin' in the game an' you with the only roll in town with Spike Goddard sittin' in the game and a bar mirror behind you that you gazed even saw till too late. Man, you were askin' for trouble."

"Well, I got it all right at that. Listen here, Frank. Is there any way I can locate this man Gerald Keene? Can't you think of some way?"

"Simon thorough of the Drovers Bank in Cato handled the ranch's business didn't he? Better write to him. What's the trouble, Joe?"

"Money," said Carr hoarsely. "I need money, Frank, and that's a fact."

"Can't you borrow enough at the See bank to tide you over? Old Pegg, the president, there, ought to help you."

"Hell, man! It's old leechhouse Pegg I want to pay. They're yellin' over some back interest that I haven't been able to pay. I borrowed eleven hundred from Pegg on my personal note and I haven't been able to pay him the interest. It's about eleven hundred odd. . . ."

Crewe whistled. Eleven thousand at ten per cent. (and Texas allows a ten per cent. rate) meant that old Joe had borrowed about all he could on his share of the ranch at prevailing rates in the money market. No wonder Joe was worried. No wonder he drank a little. Crewe suddenly made up his mind that never again would he criticize a man till he knew all of both sides of the question.

"That's bad," he said evenly. "But I mean how much is the total you owe?"

Joe Carr hung up a pair of tired hands that looked suddenly old and frail.

"A damned sight more'n I've got or can raise," he said. "But if that damned Broken Spur'd keep their thievish hands off me I could yet come clear I think."

"Well, they won't," said Crewe. "This suit over Soda Springs shows they mean to drive you to the wall. That suit'll cost you ten thousand in court fees. If they lose they can't pay. . . or wait. I'll all come back on us. . . You. . . ! Why not talk with Dustin over the matter?"

"Over an ivory front sight," snarled Carr. "That's the only way I'll talk to him. See if you can't find out where I can get in touch with Gerald Keene. He owns half the ranch. He might help."

But all attempts to find Gerald Keene had failed and at times old Joe doubted whether such a person really existed.

"I don't know what to make of it," growled Crewe, tramping the floor. "The man has just dropped out of sight. Nobody knows where he is or even where he used to live."

And today I was notified that old Peggman wants some definite action taken on my note," said Carr. "That means pay. How in hell can I?"

Crewe whistled again.

"It looks like they've got you by the short hairs," he growled. "If they crowd you, what'll you do?"

"Good God! What can I do?" demanded Carr miserably. He remembered old days when a mere verbal assurance that he would pay would have satisfied the bank but Peggman knew nothing of those days. "I'm too old to start all over again," he said wretchedly. "I can't do it, Frank. Too, there's Edith to be thought of."

"There had always been Edith and old Joe Carr had never ceased to think of her though his thoughts were not always sober ones. Crewe could not help reflecting sadly that a few hours of thought about Edith at the proper time would have prevented much of the present trouble. But he only said:

"There seems to be only the old chance that we may find this man Gerald Keene. Still. . . Even then I ain't too sure he'd help much. You can hardly expect a man to shoulder half the debts you've incurred on your own, sole responsibility. Men don't buy dead horses as a rule."

"Huh. His uncle Peter Vinton would have done it," said Carr desperately. "Peter and me was partners when it meant somethin' to back a man's play. There ain't much here, even if we find this man Gerald Keene, that he could or would help much but as far as I can see, Frank, it's our only chance. If we can find him, he might be willing to help us out for the full ownership of the Hour-glass. What do you think?"

"Looks to me like you're about right," said Crewe. "Our best hope is to find Gerald Keene."

CHAPTER IV.

"I'm still a-waitin' to hear you tell me how you plan to bring that red-headed girl of Joe Carr's to heel."

Spike Goddard poured himself a generous drink and eyed Dustin quizzically across his glass. Dustin continued to stare at him. Words finally came.

"There's a lot more than any girl in this town. You poor fool! Can't you see as far as the end of your nose? Don't you see the mess we're in? Dad Kane knows enough of what Corse and Gray were doin' up in the hills to put you and me both behind the bars for ten years. . . ."

Remember the pictures below when you want fast relief from pain. Demand and get the method doctors prescribe—Aspirin.

Millions have found that Aspirin gives even a bad headache, neuritis or rheumatic pain often in a few minutes!

In the stomach as in the glass solve, or disintegrate, almost the instant it touches moisture. It begins "taking hold" of your pain practically as soon as you swallow it. Equally important, Aspirin is safe. For scientific tests show that Aspirin does not burn the heart.

Remember these two points: Aspirin Speed and Aspirin Safety. And, see that you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada, and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin label.

A full line of 12 tablets or economical bottle of 24 or 100 at any druggist's.

Why Aspirin Works So Fast

IN 2 SECONDS BY STOP WATCH

An Aspirin tablet starts to disintegrate and go to work.

What happens in these glasses happens in your stomach. ASPIRIN tablets start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

Club has joined the new Central Alberta Hockey League. The teams

Mr. V. Shenfield, official game warden, no doubt sprang a surprise in the district one Sunday recently, and as a result captured several young men and their guns, mostly 22 rifles. They were up before the magistrate at Bowden and fined $10.00 and costs each.

At Olds: Twenty skips were elected at the meeting of the curling also passed favoring the forming of

Westcott Notes.

The Westcott W.I. program and sale of work last Friday night was a great success. A splendid varied program was much enjoyed by all.
Part of the success was due to Mr.
Archie Boyce who kindly auctioned the sale articles. The quilt which was raffled was won by Mr. Jack Delee. Over $100 was realized, and the charitable institutions will benefit by these sales. The Ladies wish to thank all those who helped
